2022 TOURO CELEBRATION AT THE SYNAGOGUE

■ DR. STEVE AND ELLEN ADELSON TO BE HONORED ON DECEMBER 16

Congregation B'nai Emunah is delighted to announce that its 2022 Touro Award honorees will be Dr. Steve and Ellen Adelson. A joyful celebration in their honor will take place in person and on live digital broadcast on Friday evening, December 16. The entire community is invited to be present in tribute to the Adelson Family.

Ellen and Steve have been mainstay contributors to Jewish life in Tulsa for decades. Steve was a longtime member of the Synagogue Board of Directors and capped his career in 2019 by becoming a B'nai Emunah Board Member for Life. Ellen has served as a role model and the conduit for her parents' and grandparents' generational commitment to the Synagogue and Jewish institutional health in Tulsa. Every campaign for the preservation and development of the local Jewish community bears the imprint of the Adelson Family's generosity.

Steve and Ellen's impact on the general community has been no less important or lasting. Together with like-minded pediatric physicians, Steve built a practice which served children from every part of Tulsa across lines of class, race, history, and socio-economic status. He was instrumental in closing abusive mental health institutions which put generations of challenged children at risk. Ellen has paired a substantial private social work practice with public involvement on the boards of Cornell University and the University of Tulsa, building forward movement for the causes of inclusion and opportunity. She has taken a deep interest in the local mental health community and the core collection of rare materials at the McFarlin Library.

This year's Touro Celebration will offer an opportunity for every member of the community to participate. A musical Shabbat celebration will begin in the Sanctuary at 7:00 p.m., followed by the tribute to the Adelsons. The evening will conclude at 8:30 p.m. with a Savory and Sweet Kiddush Reception prepared by members of the congregation and friends of the Adelson Family. While there is no cost to attend the Touro event this year, the Synagogue hopes that those who feel moved will make a generous contribution in the Adelsons' honor. Contributors will find a digital form for this purpose on the Synagogue website at www.tulsasynagogue.com. Official invitations, including an opportunity to donate, will be sent to every member of the congregation and the Jewish community.

In addition to honoring the Adelsons, the Touro Celebration stands as a tribute to the life and works of Judah Touro, American patriot and Jewish philanthropist, who modeled a commitment to the Jewish community and the world at large, building public institutions that were crucial and enduring when American Jews were at the beginning of their career as public actors in the American story.

NOVEMBER CALENDAR HIGHLIGHTS

SHABBAT MORNING SERVICES

Each week, our community gathers together to sing the liturgy of the tradition, study the weekly Torah portion, and spend time amongst family and friends. Some participants arrive in person and others take part online. All are welcome to be a part of this experience, either in person or on Zoom. Members and friends can access the Synagogue Zoom Room at 918 583 7121.

AFTERNOON/EVENING SERVICES

Each week, we gather together to experience traditional daily prayer and establish a quiet space for those who are mourning a loved one or observing the anniversary of a loss (yahrtzeit). All use these opportunities to recite a communal Mourner's Kaddish. Wednesday gatherings take place in the Sanctuary and we ask that in-person attendees let us know in advance for security purposes. Friday gatherings always take place in the Synagogue Zoom Room at 918 583 7121.

6 SHEMA: BABIES JEWISH MUSIC CLASS

Join us at 10:00 a.m. for the next gathering in a series of Jewish music classes for babies and their adults! We'll blend the best of what we know about early childhood education and the joy of Jewish music for this class geared toward kiddos two and under with their adults. This will center around gratitude as we sing, dance, move, and explore together at the Synagogue. Interested in joining us? Please be in touch with Morah Sara at slevitt@bnaiemunah.com.

6 INTRO TO JUDAISM CONTINUES

Looking into Judaism? Born Jewish and want to know more? Sharing your life with a Jew and want to crack the code? INTRO explores Jewish culture, history, and wisdom in a setting where questions are more important than answers. Classes are joined with beautiful Shabbat celebrations, supportive discussion groups, and many opportunities for interactive, experiential learning. As we move into November, we continue our Introduction to Judaism Course which is affiliated with the Miller Intro Program at American Jewish University. Students are welcome to join along the way. For more information or to register, visit tulsagogue.com/intro. Starting time: 10:00 a.m.

PLEASE PATRONIZE THE SISTERHOOD GIFT SHOP

6 SEVENTEENTH STREET DELI

In the kitchen of the Seventeenth Street Deli, we do things right. Slow cures, too much pepper, and lots of love. Our pop-up restaurant is back with in-person seating and take-out dinner service available between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, November 6. Please pre-register for your meals at tulsadeli.org and choose between pastrami, corned beef, or deli egg salad. You can call us at \(918\) 583-7121. A complete meal is $18. Register soon before all the spots are gone.

10 BLATT + BLUE: GOLDEN VOICES

Thirty-three months later, we're still screening great movies and television at the Synagogue. Think of it as the longest running Jewish film festival in Oklahoma. This month's selection is Golden Voices, a fascinating look at the complexities of Russian immigration to Israel. The film describes fault lines that many of us didn't know existed. Tune in for the discussion at 7:00 p.m. on Zoom at 918 583 7121. The film is easily available for a small fee on Amazon Prime.

16 LIFELONG LEARNERS

Ageless seniors from every corner of the community are invited to join Rabbi Kaiman at the Synagogue for lunch and rabbinic storytelling from the literature of our civilization. The session will begin at 11:30 a.m., and a bus leaves from Zarrow Pointe at 11:00 a.m. each time. No charge for transportation (you may, of course, come in your vehicle), and lunch from Queenie's will be provided. It's our pleasure to provide this service in cooperation with our fellow Jewish institution. Please reserve your spot by calling the Synagogue at \(918\) 583-7121 or emailing programs@bnaiemunah.com.

18 SHABBAT FOR EVERYONE

Just like the name suggests, it's an accessible, kid-friendly, musical Shabbat experience for everyone! Newcomers and experienced community members come together to sing, dance, and welcome Shabbat alongside one another. A catered dinner precedes the musical celebration at 6:15 p.m. Let us handle the cooking and cleaning so you can relax into the weekend and Shabbat with family and friends. No reservation is necessary for the celebration, which begins at 7:00 p.m. But please call the Synagogue Offices or visit our website to make reservations for the dinner. The service will be broadcast live on Zoom at 918 583 7121.

20 FAMILY DAY OF SERVICE

Join us for our annual Family Day of Service the Sunday before Thanksgiving! This year we will be joining forces with our friends at Temple Israel and The Jewish Federation of Tulsa for a community-wide day of service. Parents should plan to join their children for the morning, and all are invited to participate. We'll kick things off at 9:00 a.m. with a Tefillah experience and snack followed by a morning of giving back to our beloved Tulsa community. Please keep an eye out for information on the starting location in school communications.

CONGRATULATIONS

MAZAL TOV

To Eva Unterman, who recently celebrated a milestone birthday. Long life and good health!

To Sheldon and Molly Berger, who will celebrate the wedding of their son, Michael, to Erica Nedleman the first weekend of November. The couple resides in Chicago.

To Shai Kaiser, who recently opened his new virtual reality arcade, Aaru, in downtown Tulsa.

To Max Merzin and Elana Weinstein, recent Tulsa transplants who recently got engaged. Welcome to Tulsa and congrats!

To Miles Zeligson, whose dog walking and care business was recently featured in Tulsa People. Miles can be reached through his website thewoofpacktulsa.com.

To all the members of our Bikkur Cholim team for delivering, cooking, and baking this past month. All of them helped us fulfill the mitzvot of service, lovingkindness, and support in times of need:

FROM RABBI KAIMAN

ONE YEAR IN

On November 17, 2021, a small group of volunteers and staff arrived at the airport to welcome the very first clients of The Synagogue's Refugee Resettlement Agency. For months we had been working toward the day that our work would become "real" and that we would have actual clients in our program. Then quickly, we were called into action, and it was time to greet a family of four who had been living in a safe haven after fleeing Afghanistan. They had a newborn child who was already an American citizen, and their journey in this country was also in its infancy.

As we drove to the airport that evening, I remember feeling nervous with excitement and anticipation. The responsibility of helping others navigate their very first months of transition is a serious undertaking. While we had every reason to be confident in our ability to deliver on our promises, the nerves and apprehension showed how much we cared about this undertaking. But we, too, were an agency in our infancy.

Nearly a year later, I write this message on a week that the Synagogue will similarly welcome three families to this country. Over the past year, we've received just over 100 individuals from all over the world. While our work first focused on individuals from Afghanistan, we now regularly work with Burmese, Malay, Rohingya, Syrians, and Ukrainians.

As I walked into the Synagogue on a recent morning, I held the door open for a Rohingya mother who entered the building with her toddler. As I turned the corner toward my office, the poetry of that gesture struck me. Our actions in Refugee Resettlement manifest our prayers and hopes to live in a world that works toward healing. We might not be able to solve every refugee crisis, but there is plenty we can do. The work has already begun.

On Friday, November 18, at our Shabbat for Everyone celebration, we will mark the first anniversary of our Refugee Resettlement agency. With a special invitation to former clients, agency staff, and volunteers, we hope to highlight our accomplishments and look toward the next steps on our journey.

We've done plenty so far, but there is much more ahead. As we work towards making permanent space in our Synagogue building for resettlement, we see opportunities for renewal and reinvigoration. As we gain experience in our work, we develop new opportunities for volunteerism and engagement. As we explore new cultures and ethnicities, we foster new communal relationships.

We are no longer an agency in our infancy. Let's walk forward together into this new year ahead.

BLATT+BLUE: GREAT JEWISH FILM AND TELEVISION

■ GOLDEN VOICES ON NOVEMBER 10

A film of surprising insight, honesty and sentiment, Evgeny Ruman's Golden Voices focuses on recent Russian immigrants, Victor and Raya. Sent to live in small-town Israel, they are overwhelmed by the task of finding employment and making their way in a culture that does not speak their language. Both are highly regarded voice-over artists with established careers in the adaptation of world-cinema treasures for Russian filmgoers. Adrift in Israel, they cannot find work that rises to their expectations.

Eventually, Raya lands a job in a call center for phone sex. Victor reacts furiously, but cannot find his footing in the world of Israeli cinema. Complications ensue involving one of Raya's customers, who demonstrates tenderness and a forlorn charm to his lonely phone partner. The film ends on a note of sweet redemption and tattered hope.

All of this will be matter for discussion in the next session of Blatt + Blue on November 10 at 7:00 p.m. Potential participants can see the film for a small rental fee. Call the Synagogue at (918) 583-7121 if you have any difficulty locating the program at home.

Blatt + Blue is one of the longest-running projects at the Synagogue during the period of the pandemic. Born in March 2020, it has run without a break for thirty-three months, spotlighting a diverse and provocative roster of films and television. The series expresses the Synagogue's own commitments to an inclusive and pluralistic vision of the Jewish world. No single endeavor can capture the whole of the Jewish experience. No single institution can exhaust the rich possibilities of Jewish life. Film and television enthusiasts David Blatt and Alice Blue begin each session with a summary of the featured material. It means that you'll be able to follow the conversation even if you have to delay your viewing of the episodes themselves. After that, it's questions and comments from the Zoom Room audience.

Join the discussion in the Synagogue Zoom Room with two dozen regular participants. The Zoom meeting ID is 918 583 7121 and the session will conclude at 8:00 p.m. If there is a film or broadcast you'd like to see in these sessions in the future, please reach out to Rabbi Marc Fitzerman at marboofitz@bnaiemunah.com.

FROM RABBI FITZGERMAN

JEWISH MONKEYS

You may be late to the party of new Jewish music, but I hope you've tuned in to Jewish Monkeys. Provocatively named (and even more provocative onstage), they're a scrum of middle-aged Israeli men who specialize in Diasporic sounds and musical politics. One is a psychotherapist, another a dentist—you get the picture of hobbyist musicians who have somehow metamorphosed into a cultural force.

Take their version of Roumania, Roumania. Originally written by the great Aaron Lebedeff (who had no organic link to the Jews of Roumaina), it has been covered by half a million artists, ranging from Eartha Kitt (!) to Binyumen Schaechter's stupendous Yiddish Philharmonic Chorus. At heart, it's a salute to the sybaritic delights of a culture steeped in wine and spicy charcuterie, but the Monkeys manage to capture its salacious undertones. It's all wrong from the perspective of morality and politics, but it's also weirdly wild and transfixing. Go figure.

But the politics that really capture my attention have to do with Israelis and their ideas about pre-war Ashkenazic forms. For decades, this has been a flashpoint in Israeli culture, a pervasive rejection of Yiddish and its literature, along with the the music, poetry, and cuisine of Jewish Europe. The charge is that it represents a kind of discredited weakness, superseded by the New Man that was the aspiration of the Jewish State. Many Israelis are comfortable with Balkan, Mizrahi, and many other musical motifs, but many are instinctively averse to the klezmer clarinet.

All of this may sound hopelessly arcane and marginal, but this is a battle worth engaging in, especially if the combatants are highly articulate Israelis. The Monkeys go about their musical business with a kind of fabulous energy, talking about Jewishness and masculinity, and marking out the future of their idiosyncratic klezmer, all the while making music in Yiddish, Hebrew, and (wait for it)...Esperanto. My advice is to take a listen on either YouTube or Spotify. The Monkeys are easy to find and mesmerizing to watch. Either that, or scan the articles about them in places like Ha'aretz. Everywhere you go, they will be hard to resist.

BAR MITZVAH

SIMON MILO JEFFY

Simon Milo Jeffy, son of Kate and Elon Jeffy, will become a bar mitzvah on Saturday, November 12, at Congregation B'nai Emunah.

Simon is a seventh grade student at Monte Cassino Middle School, where he is an honors student. He enjoys playing video games and basketball, and is on the academic bowl team at school. Simon has attended B'nai Emunah Sunday School for many years and has been preparing for his bar mitzvah under Greg Raskin's tutoring and Morah Sara Levitt's guidance for nearly a year.

As he leads the Shabbat service, Simon will be surrounded by his family and friends, including his brother, Oliver, and out-of-town family from California, Arizona, and New York. Simon is the grandson of Ed and Anita (of blessed memory) Ulrich and Allan and Elaine Jeffy, all of Tulsa, Oklahoma; and Shari Burks of Phoenix, Arizona.

■ JOY IN THE CHAOS

Confetti cannons. Crazy hats. Silly sunglasses. Mega rings. If you could think of it, we had it this year at Simchat Torah. After years of thinking outside the box for this celebration (which I think we did successfully), we returned to Kaiser-Miller Auditorium for the party of the High Holiday season. As folks took their turn dancing with the Torah, each child received the next trinket and screamed with joy as a confetti cannon kicked off the start of the next hakafah (the circles of dancing we make with the Torah on the holiday). If you didn't know any better, you might have walked by and wondered about the sheer chaos happening at the Synagogue.

I was one of those people in my first years at the Synagogue. The sensory overload is no cakewalk, and it seems like each year, the amount of confetti on the floors at the end of the night grows exponentially. This year was different. Perhaps after years of isolation and masked faces this year, I experienced Simchat Torah in an entirely new way. With my youngest strapped in our trusty baby carrier, I watched as the children of our congregation and their families were fully immersed in beautiful chaos.

Sure, it was loud. Sometimes it wasn't clear which direction to follow with the Torahs. But with the chaos came an intense joy, simcha. I saw it on the faces of our congregants hugging the Torah, many for the first time, and in the eyes of the tots flying on their parents' shoulders. I noticed it in pride beaming from grandparents watching their grandchildren wave their ShulSchool flags and the children collecting confetti to dump on their friends or siblings. It was not clean or orderly, but it embodied everything I love about Judaism; intergenerational experiences, music, community, and the taking of the Torah literally in our hands and sharing it.

This Simchat Torah rooted me in the vital work we do daily at the Synagogue, creating beautiful, meaningful experiences for our community. As we move forward in the New Year, may we all find inspiration in uncovering the joy in the chaos surrounding us.

We won't know if you're in the hospital unless we hear from you. Please call us at (918) 583-7121.

■ ABORTION UPDATE

The fight continues, but it's not getting easier. When Roe was gutted by the Supreme Court last June, the progressive religious community vowed active resistance. That meant legal challenges, legislative campaigns, and direct assistance to women in need. In many states, including our own, that has proved difficult-to-impossible. A person or institution resolved to support individual women seeking abortions can be charged under the laws prohibiting aiding and abetting. That clearly applies to the Synagogue and like-minded religious organizations. Whatever risks an individual may decide to undertake, B'nai Emunah will continue to defer to the advice of its lawyers.

What we can do is continue to raise our voices. Together with my colleagues at All Souls, I have worked to reestablish the Oklahoma Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights. I will be speaking at the TU Law School in November to share the perspective of Jewish Law on reproductive justice. And with the support of our legal team, Rabbi Kaiman and I signed on to a powerful amicus brief that calls on Oklahoma to respect the ancient commitments of minority faiths like ours. That means leaving abortion decisions in the hands of private citizens.

I hope that all of you will continue to support these commitments. Whatever you may think of the so-called religious right, it has taught the value of slow and patient organization in order to achieve its goal of cancelling access. With energy and resources, we can accomplish a humane and decent version of those successes.
