ON THE COVER

The little colored boxes on our cover this month are part of a non-traditional Omer calendar. That's the chart that traditionally marks the days between Passover at one end and Shavu'ot at the other. At their point of origin, the Omer calendar was a simple countdown: forty-nine days between one holiday and another. But the tradition—especially the Kabbalah—has since embroidered each day in the series with a set of attributes and possibilities. The Synagogue hopes to explore some of these this year, but take a look at the article on page 5 of this edition. Barbecue!

THE APRIL CALENDAR OF EVENTS

TWO RABBIS AND... | EVERY FRIDAY

Every Friday at 11:00 a.m., our rabbis convene a weekly conversation to reflect on pertinent topics of the day, interview special guests, and talk about ideas relevant to Synagogue life. They hope you'll join them. Sessions take place on April 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30. Zoom meeting ID: 918 583 7121.

SHABBAT TOGETHER | FRIDAY EVENINGS

As days and weeks go by, our tradition asks that we take time to pause, reflect, and enjoy time together. Shabbat Together is a short, digital gathering where we take a few moments to pause with community as we enter Shabbat. The content is songs for the Shabbat table and it always starts at 6:00 p.m. A weekly Yahrzeit service precedes this experience at 5:45 p.m. The sessions this month are April 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30. Zoom meeting ID: 918 583 7121.

PANIM EL PANIM | SATURDAY MORNINGS

Our tradition speaks of a special power that exists when a group of people gathers together for prayer. Panim el Panim is a live broadcast service led by Rabbis Kaiman and Fitzerman. Rooted in our in-person Shabbat morning service, we spend time singing, reflecting, studying Torah, and connecting. Services begin at 10:00 a.m. The dates for Panim el Panim services are April 3, 10, 17, and 24. Zoom meeting ID: 918 583 7121.

BAKER'S DOZEN | TUESDAY & THURSDAY

After a brief winter hiatus, our cookie-baking program is back in full swing, and we need bakers! We're collecting cookies, bars, and other single-serving baked goods every Tuesday and Thursday morning and delivering them right away to frontline workers around the city. Any donation of baked goods is deeply appreciated; reach out to Eric Hunker at ehunker@bnaiemunah.com, and we'll work you into the schedule as smoothly as we work our pastry dough! All of our recipients have been deeply grateful.

1 BITTER EVENING: TALK AND TASTING

It's one of the essential tastes of Passover. At the Seder, we eat the bitter herb to remind us of the bitterness of oppression. In her book, Bitter, culinary author Jennifer McLagan argues that the flavor's complexity invites a special sort of attention. In partnership with Magic City Books, we're excited to welcome Jennifer McLagan to the Synagogue as she shares insights from her book and leads us in a tasting experience. The cost of the event is $36. Each registration comes with a copy of the book and all the supplies you'll need for the tasting. To register, visit our website, tulsagogue.com. Once registered you'll receive information about how to pick up your Bitter Box in advance of the program.

4 END-OF-PASSOVER PIZZA DEAL

Satisfy your chamaytz cravings with a special pizza meal deal through the Synagogue. In partnership with Andolini's Pizza, we're delighted to offer an end-of-Passover pizza experience. Our special deal includes two 14-inch, two-topping pizzas and one order of Detroit Bread for just $29.99. There's also a $40 version; please watch for menu details. And remember to ask for the Synagogue Post-Passover Deal when you order over the phone. The Tulsa branch is (918) 728-6111. The Jenks location is (918) 701-3701.

12 INTRO: PART 1

Looking to know more? Uncover traditions and build community as part of our INTRO program. In partnership with the American Jewish University, we're delighted to offer Part 1 of this eighteen-session course in April and May. We'll offer Parts 2 and 3 this summer and fall for someone looking for the whole course experience. The six classes for Part 1 will take place on Monday evenings at 7:30 p.m. on Zoom. It's just $18 to register for the learning experience. No matter your starting point, we think there's always room to keep studying together. Visit tulsagogue.com/intro to register and see the full course calendar.

15 BLATT+BLUE: BLESSED IS THE MATCH

Our ongoing film and television series, Blatt+Blue, spotlights film and television enthusiasts David Blatt and Alice Blue. This month they'll discuss Blessed is the Match, the story of Hannah Senesh, a Hungarian-Jewish poet who was captured by Nazis while trying to rescue Jews during WWII. This month's installment is presented in partnership with the Tulsa Council for Holocaust Education. Join the discussion in our Zoom room: 918 583 7121. Starting time is 7:00 p.m.

17 MORNING MINDFULNESS

Moments of reflection are increasingly rare in the busy lives we lead. But spiritual practice invites us to set aside time to do exactly that. We practice to familiarize ourselves with old and new ways of being. Artist-in-Residence Happie Hoffman alongside Rabbi Kaiman will guide us in a morning of meditation and mindfulness on Shabbat morning, April 17 at 8:30 a.m. The hour-long session is designed both as a lead-in to our Panim-el-Panim celebration or as a stand-alone experience. We'll see you in the Synagogue Zoom Room: 918 583 7121. For more, contact Rabbi Kaiman.

18 B-MITZVAH FAMILY PROGRAM

Sixth-grade families are invited to join us for the second of three sessions in this series of preparation and learning for b'nai mitzvah families. Students and parents will learn together to help lay a foundation for the preparatory year ahead of a bar or bat Mitzvah. The B-Mitzvah program begins at 10:30 a.m. alongside the morning of ShulSchool studies. For questions, please contact Morah Sara at slevitt@bnaiemunah.com.

19 CITIZENSHIP CLASS BEGINS

We're delighted to share that our Citizenship Class will resume this spring. We are now looking for volunteers to support our instructor in an online Zoom experience to prepare refugees and immigrants in our community to become U.S. citizens. Classes meet Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Volunteers will be asked to lead small-group learning and practice in breakout rooms, as well as offer support to both the teacher and students. No teaching or Citizenship Test knowledge necessary. While students will attend both classes, volunteers can sign up for just one day a week to participate. The course begins Monday, April 19, and runs through July 26. Know someone preparing for the Citizenship Test? We'd love for them to join us as well. Please be in touch with Morah Sara at slevitt@bnaiemunah.com with questions.

22 BRAIDING WITH BRAE | CHALLAH ART

Why do we braid challah? To make it beautiful. The more beautiful we can braid, the more beautiful our challah. Our own Brae Riley is a talented braiding artist who regularly shares his accomplished artistry during our Zoom celebrations. For this workshop, Brae will help us develop our skills and deepen our bread braiding toolkit. Visit our website or call the Synagogue office to reserve free challah dough to pick up for this interactive experience, or feel free to make your favorite dough and have it ready for braiding along with us. It all begins at 7:00 p.m. in the Synagogue Zoom Room (918 583 7121).

FROM RABBI FITZGERMAN

THE END OF THE TUNNEL

Many things still stand in the way. Vaccine hesitancy. Vaccination of the unprivileged. Unknown variants that might be vaccine-resistant. But it looks like there is reason for optimism. Despite the need to be cautious and protective, the weight of the pandemic is beginning to lift. In many places in the country, new cases are declining. Hospitals report fewer calls for intensive care. As of this writing, the likelihood of fatality has markedly declined in Tulsa and elsewhere. It won't be over until its over, but on most days my own pulse isn't racing quite as wildly.

What that means is that we can begin to plan again. With a little bit of luck, we'll be closed for the spring but cautiously experimenting with small in-person events for late summer. As long as cases continue to drop, there's a chance that we'll be together for the High Holidays. I may be forced to eat those words, but I always want to be on the side of optimism.

And I certainly want to be on the side of gratitude. For those who have already been fully vaccinated, I'd like to suggest that you mark the moment so that it doesn't disappear into a dim memory of this experience. The tradition offers a host of possibilities. The top of the list is always tzedakah. Choose a cause or an institution that reflects your values and then make a contribution for the good of the community. Two possibilities are the World Health Organization and the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases. Both have easily discoverable websites and both are set up to accept donations.

I would also think about the rituals of mourning and purification. At the end of shiva, on the morning of the seventh day, mourners traditionally end the first phase of bereavement by opening the front door and circling the block. It signals a readiness to engage with the world again, and make the first transition back to a version of normalcy. However long you have to wait for the second vaccination to take hold (Pfizer or Moderna), I would mark the end of the waiting period with that ritual act.

And finally, there is the possibility of mikveh. In all the ways a mikveh is used, it is always about the rebirth of possibility. We have opened our mikveh for just this purpose. With the help of our staff, along with Betty Lehman and Rachel Gold, you may now make an appointment whenever you are fully vaccinated. We will help you through the ritual of three immersions, along with a liturgy appropriate to the experience of the pandemic. We think that many people will find renewal in this exercise.

25 TO+GATHER: GO YIDDISH!

Bubbeleh! Let's explore Yiddish, the powerful and enchanting cultural reference point that invites us to share our history as we explore its complexity. Toolboxes with materials and activities will be delivered to your home. In addition, we'll gather at 3:00 p.m. on Zoom for a story, movement, and puppetry experience together. Please contact Morah Sara to learn more, or make sure your child is on our distribution list.

29 BARBECUE BA-OMER

From the second day of Passover until Shavu'ot, we mark each day with a ritual practice called Sefirat ha-Omer. The thirty-third day of this practice is called Lag ba-Omer and is traditionally marked with bonfires and cookouts. We like this idea very much and have partnered with a local BBQ team to provide an authentic, kosher, BBQ platter for pickup and picnic. Make your reservations in advance on the Synagogue website and swing by the Synagogue between 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to pick up your dinners. We think that this is going to be the great beginning of an annual celebration!

FROM RABBI KAIMAN

■ LET ALL COME AND EAT

With any luck, this edition of the Messenger will arrive in your hands as you're still feeling full from the Passover seder. One of the most powerful gestures of that ritual evening is when we swing open our front doors and state aloud to all those gathered, "Let all who are hungry come and eat."

Growing up, it was often the kids who got to run to the front door and facilitate this experience. I always secretly hoped that someone would walk by our suburban residence and take us up on the offer. Of course, that never happened. The primary reason being that except for the occasional dog-walker, there weren't any passersby.

But even if there was someone in need of a meal walking by our house at the exact moment we threw open our doors, the likelihood that they would sit at our table is next to none. Why? Because it is difficult to receive the generosity of another. For some, they do not feel deserving of the gesture. For others, there is shame or embarrassment in admitting that help is needed.

Some of you may have noticed a new practice we've begun on the Synagogue website. Since February, we have added two options to every meal reservation form. When ordering food for yourself and your family, you can now select "Donate a meal." You'll be charged an additional fee for the cost of that meal, and we'll do our part to share your generosity.

The second option is "complimentary meal," and it represents one way we do our part to share what others give. If someone finds themselves in need of assistance, they can claim a meal free of charge. There is no application to fill out, no phone number to call, no email exchange to ask for help. We hope this represents a dignified way to access our community's generosity without any of the overhangs that sometimes get in the way.

We'll be trying out this new practice for the next little while. And I'm happy to report that so far, it seems to be working. The ritual act of throwing open our doors may only apply to Seder night, but at the Synagogue, we hope those doors always remain open.

If you'd like to help us by underwriting the cost of even more meals associated with Synagogue programming, please be in touch. Please think of me as the one standing at the open door.

■ BECOMING OUR BEST SELVES

One of the more magical things that has happened during the pandemic is the opening of learning possibilities. In the realm of Jewish education and Jewish communal professionals, this means an explosion of courses and conferences, cohorts and experiences, that bring together folks from around the country to learn from experts from around the world.

Late this winter, I participated in the Jewish Education Project's seminar entitled Rethinking Leadership for Gender Equity. This three-part series brought together Synagogue professionals to look seriously at equity in our workplaces and our community. We explored ideas about power and bias, the wage gap, negotiation, conflicted resolution, communication, and leadership styles, all through the lens of gender and gender equity. Throughout each of the sessions, we continued to wonder if our organizations and the larger Jewish community's policies and practices in the workplace reflected our values.

This work is not easy. It's personal, and it's difficult to admit when you have been wronged, felt uncomfortable, or didn't know what you said or did was offensive to others. There is much to continue to learn in this space to ensure that we hold ourselves to the field's highest standards.

In the coming months, we'll be working to understand more, alongside an organization called the Safety, Respect, and Equity Initiative. The SRE has been working in the vanguard of the me-too movement to ensure that Jewish communities around the country ask themselves these difficult questions and take steps toward ensuring safe, respectful, and equitable Jewish spaces. I look forward to reporting back on our progress and our efforts to push ourselves to be our very best selves.

GOVERNANCE

■ VOTING

We're happy to announce that a budget for the coming year of congregational life has been formulated and approved by the Board of Directors at its meeting in March. It now goes before the congregation for review and final approval. If you'd like to participate in this process, please tune in to the April Board Meeting on Tuesday evening, April 13, at 7:00 p.m.

We'll follow a similar path for the election of Officers and Board Members. Nominations for the coming year include Dr. John Schumann (President); Ross Heyman and Mark Goldman (Vice Presidents); Sally Donaldson (Treasurer); and Nancy Cohen (Secretary). Presidential Appointees include David Charney, Jolene Sanditen, and Craig Silberg. Dr. Elana Newman will serve as Immediate Past President; and Jeremy Rabinowitz will serve as Foundation President.

All Board members elected to serve at this time last year will continue to fill out their two-year terms. Nominated for two year terms this year are: Noah Bleicher, Emily Melton Bolusky, Nancy Cohen, Barbara Eisen, Jake Lerner, Terry Marcum, Aaron Miller, Debby Raskin, Eric Richards, and Jolene Sanditen. In order to simplify our election during the pandemic, paper ballots will be mailed in early April. Please fill them out and return them in the enclosed envelope. Our installation of Officers and Board members will take place on Friday evening, May 21. A short Shabbat celebration will begin at 6:00 p.m., followed by Shabbat dinner, available for pick-up on Friday afternoon. The installation ceremony will begin at 7:00 and include remarks from outgoing president, Dr. Elana Newman, the incoming president, and Rabbis Fitzerman and Kaiman. All are invited!

DEPARTMENT OF VERY GOOD NEWS

NEW TO THE FAMILY

The Synagogue is delighted to announce that Eric Hunker has joined our staff as Program Director and will be working on all aspects of Synagogue life in the months ahead. Eric's gifts in music, communications technology, and event planning have already been a visible part of B'nai Emunah's public profile, and we hope that many of our members will soon get a taste of his talents.

Eric has shaped his career as a singer-songwriter, educator, and community builder with his work around the Jewish world. Over the past decade, he has led programming and performed Jewish music on several continents for organizations such as BBYO, Hillel International, the Institute for Southern Jewish Life, Limmud Festivals, and March of the Living. He has dedicated much of his adulthood to deepening relationships through communal singing, exploring the science and art of making meaningful memories, and facilitating conversations around healthy Jewish masculinity.

After moving from Austin, Texas a little over four years ago, Eric has called Tulsa home. As one of the vanguard successes of Tulsa Tomorrow, he has found himself deeply invested in the warmth of the Tulsa Jewish community and is excited to continue to develop his role within it. In his words, "I've lived in nine cities, six states, and two countries. There's something truly special about Tulsa."

Eric is the second program specialist to join the Synagogue in the past several months. Just before the pandemic, B'nai Emunah engaged Happie Hoffman thanks to a special grant for a new artist-in-residence. Eric regularly partners with Happie onstage and collaborates with her on program initiatives with BBYO.

As the pandemic eases, you will see more of Eric in the center of Synagogue life, meeting and greeting as we stitch ourselves back together as a warm and intimate family. He brings an intuitive sense of how people yearn to be joined with others and attach themselves to something larger than themselves. Welcome to B'nai Emunah, Eric Hunker!

SPECIAL EVENTS

■ BLATT+BLUE ON APRIL 15

In conjunction with our community's annual observance of Yom Ha-Sho'ah, the Synagogue's ongoing program on Jewish cinema and television will focus in April on Blessed is the Match. At age twenty-two, Hannah Senesh parachuted into Nazi-occupied Europe in an effort to save the Jews of Hungary. As a poet and diarist, she left behind a body of work that has inspired generations. Filmed by documentarian Roberta Grossman and narrated by Academy Award nominee Joan Allen, Blessed is the Match is the first film to present the life story of this remarkable, talented, and complex woman.

This edition of Blatt + Blue is a cooperative project of the Synagogue and the Tulsa Council for Holocaust Education, a committee of community volunteers which enjoys administrative and financial support provided by the Jewish Federation of Tulsa (JFT), the Sherwin Miller Museum of Jewish Art, and the Eva Unterman Holocaust Education Fund. The Council has focused this year on the theme of resistance. The story of Hannah Senesh raises important questions about the power of the individual and community mobilization. The film itself is an interesting combination of narration, reenactment, and filmed reminiscence.

Blatt + Blue spotlights film and television enthusiasts David Blatt and Alice Blue, who begin each session with a summary of the featured material. It means that you'll be able to follow the conversation even if you have to delay your viewing of the film itself. After that, it's questions and comments from the Zoom Room audience.

The film is currently available on Amazon Prime Video and may be rented for a three-day interval for a small fee. Join the Zoom event with David and Alice on Thursday evening, April 18, at 7:00 p.m. The Zoom meeting ID is 918 583 7121 and the session will conclude at 8:00 p.m. If there is a film you'd like to see in these sessions in the future, please reach out to Eric Hunker at ehunker@bnaiemunah.com.
