WINTERLIGHT ON DECEMBER 5

ON THE COVER

This sixteenth-century image of Judah Maccabee reminds us that the story of Chanukah is, at heart, an eventful narrative about armed conflict and the reconquest of Jerusalem. That's not the way the holiday is described in the Talmud, but it is arguably a truer picture of the Hasmonean rebellion in antiquity. So is the account in the Book of Maccabees that shows us the tension between urban Jewish cosmopolitans and rural pietists. Things are always more complicated than we have made many of them out to be.

NOVEMBER CALENDAR HIGHLIGHTS

TWO RABBIS AND...

Every Friday, November 5, 12, 19 at 11:00 a.m. Rabbis Kaiman and Fitzerman convene a weekly conversation to foreground news of the day, interview special guests, and talk about ideas relevant to Jewish community life. It's an ongoing conversation about our shared journey in a diverse, multicultural Jewish world. Join us on Zoom at 918 583 7121 for the recording. The resulting podcast is available on Spotify, iTunes, and the Synagogue website.

SHABBAT TOGETHER

Every Friday, November 5, 12, 19, 26 at 5:30 p.m. The portal moments of candle lighting, kiddush, and the first bite of challah, remind us that Shabbat is an ideal time to enjoy time in each other's company. Shabbat Together is a short, digital gathering where we take a few moments to connect with the whole community as we enter Shabbat. We hope that this experience will be especially meaningful to those who are mourning a loved one or observing the anniversary of a loss (yahrtzeit). We'll conclude everything in time for you to enjoy a Shabbat meal at home. Synagogue Zoom Room, Meeting ID: 918 583 7121.

PANIM EL PANIM AND B'YACHAD

Every Saturday, November 6, 13, 20, 27 at 9:30 a.m. Our tradition speaks of the special power that exists when people gather together for prayer. Panim el Panim is a live broadcast service on Zoom led by Rabbis Fitzerman and Kaiman. Rooted in the traditional practice of the Synagogue, we focus on the concerns of the liturgy, Torah study, and offering prayer for those in need of healing. Our handbook is Siddur Eit Ratzon, a fully transliterated presentation of the Shabbat morning service with expert commentary and guidance. Shabbat Yachad is a COVID-safe gathering in the Synagogue Sanctuary marking our incremental return to life in three dimensions. We'll be digital on November 13 and 27, and three-dimensional on November 6 and 20. To take part in the digital celebration, join us in our Synagogue Zoom Room, Meeting ID: 918 583 7121. To participate in Shabbat Yachad, please make your reservation at tulsagogue.com. Remember that this service is also available on Zoom.

BAKER'S DOZEN EVERY MONDAY

Every Monday between noon and 5:00 p.m. Our cookie-baking program continues and we are eager for new bakers! As COVID-19 cases rise, we are collecting cookies, bars, and single-serve baked goods and delivering them immediately to frontline workers around the city. All are invited to participate and any gift in any amount is appreciated. Please wear a mask and deliver your cookies to the designated table at the Synagogue entrance on Mondays from 12:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. If you have any questions, please contact Natalie Shaver at nshaver@bnaiemunah.com.

INTRO: ROUND 3

Every Monday November 1 until November 22. Rabbi Kaiman continues with the third unit of his Introduction to Judaism course for the whole community. The class is open to all students, including those considering conversion, adult learners looking for deeper understanding, those with Jewish spouses or extended family, and high school students involved in interfaith relations. Sessions loop through the entire calendar year and each session is self-contained. Please make contact with Rabbi Kaiman at rdk@bnaiemunah.com to register for this course.

6 MIDDLE SCHOOL SHABBATON

Calling all sixth, seventh, and eighth graders! Join us Saturday November 6 for our annual Middle School Shabbaton. Enjoy a Shabbat with learning, nosh, and tons of fun with your friends at the Synagogue. We are so glad to bring back the Middle School Shabbaton after a year on hiatus! We'll spend the whole day at the Synagogue and end with a special program at night. The day will include lunch, snacks, and dinner. Our theme this year is "One Hundred Blessings" and our learning will be centered around the idea of being, giving, and receiving blessings as young Jewish adults. Questions and to sign up your middle schooler, please be in touch with Morah Sara at slevitt@bnaiemunah.com

18 BLATT + BLUE: TEL AVIV ON FIRE

Our ongoing film and television series, Blatt+Blue, spotlights the discussion leading skills of film and television enthusiasts David Blatt and Alice Blue. This month they will discuss Tel Aviv on Fire, Sameh Zoabi's clever 2019 comedy about an inexperienced young Palestinian man who becomes a writer on a popular soap opera after a chance meeting with an Israeli soldier. Join us on Thursday, November 18 at 7:00 p.m. for a lively discussion in our Synagogue Zoom room. The meeting ID is 918 583 7121.

19 SHABBAT FOR EVERYONE

We are excited to welcome all ages to our monthly outdoor Shabbat service. We'll begin with a festive meal and continue with the music and words of celebration. Please make your reservations on the Synagogue website at www.tulsasynagogue.com. The starting time is 6:15 p.m. and we have just installed outdoor, gas-fired, restaurant-style heaters for a cozy experience. Our October edition was great and we think that the gathering in November will be just as satisfying.

20 BAR MITZVAH OF BARON VON OSTENDORF

We're happy to announce the coming celebration in honor of Baron Von Ostendorf, son of Jennifer Paxton and Anton Von Ostendorf, on November 20 at 9:30 a.m. Please see the article about Baron on page 5 for details.

21 FAMILY DAY OF SERVICE

Shul School and Hebrew Language Lab students and their families are invited to our Annual Day of Service as we prepare for the Thanksgiving Season. On Sunday, November 21, families will join their children for a day of intergenerational learning, celebration, and action. This year our focus will be on refugees as the Synagogue and the larger Tulsa community continue to welcome new arrivals to Tulsa. We'll learn about our own history of being new to a place, our Jewish responsibility to help those in need, and what we can do to support refugees today in our own community. The morning will run during regular Shul School hours. Questions? Contact Mora Sara at slevitt@bnaiemunah.com.

FROM RABBI FITZGERMAN

ABORTION

I've noticed in the past couple of months that the tendency toward euphemism is dropping out of the abortion debate. We are no longer speaking about the "pro-choice" camp, but rather a woman's right, established by Supreme Court ruling, to seek a safe and legal abortion.

I think that's a good thing. I'm a big fan of delicate language, but it seems to me that we have to start addressing this issue head-on. Too much is at stake for too many people, especially poor women of color who cannot carry a pregnancy to term. The draconian contours of the new law in Texas and the strong likelihood that a conservative court will overturn Roe v. Wade brings a sense of urgency to this issue. We're just months away from a decision that may be deeply injurious to the agency and independence of American women.

That would be wrong, not least because it offends against Jewish standards in this area of the law. I am a religious person who participates enthusiastically in the legal culture of Jewish civilization. That tradition says yes to the possibility of ending a pregnancy, especially in cases when bringing a child into the world may bring harm to a woman. We have been thinking about the status of a fetus since the Book of Exodus, at least three thousand years ago. In our view of life, a fetus has status and a claim on the legal system, but it does not over-match the status or claims of the woman who carries it.

It seems to me that I have written about this matter a million times in my rabbinate, but at the risk of being tedious and predictable, I'll say it again. My support for safe and legal abortion is not rooted in some vague sense of what political liberalism demands, but rather the contours of Jewish law, as we have worked on this issue over centuries. As much as anything, I would hate for our position on this matter to be dismissed as a secular scruple. It's part of who I am as a citizen of our community and an observant Jew.

I write these words on the day I delivered lunch to the hard-working staffers at Planned Parenthood on Peoria. They have received a stream of pilgrims from Texas who cannot safely seek abortions in that state. By report, the Oklahoma staff is feeling the pressures of the moment and needs support. Six pizzas from Hideaway was the least I could do.

If you'd like to be part of this simple program of generosity, just let me know. I've signed up for two more lunches before the end of the year and we'll play it by ear in 2022. Regardless of what the court decides, this issue will not go away. I do not expect to convince those who disagree of the rightness of my view. But now and always, I want to articulate the values of our tradition and claim the freedom to describe them with calm and clarity.

BAR MITZVAH

■ BARON VON OSTENDORF

Baron Wolfgang Von Ostendorf, son of Anton Von Ostendorf and Jennifer Paxton, will become a bar mitzvah on November 20, 2021. Baron is a seventh grader at Carver Middle School. He is the youngest member of the Tulsa Metro Bagpipe Band and enjoys all things musical. He is passionate about the performing arts and recently completed a run with Theatre Tulsa's Matilda. He has also been cast as Kurt Von Trapp in their upcoming production of The Sound of Music.

Baron has attended Bnai Emunah pre-school, Sunday School, Hebrew Language Lab and Midrasha. He also graduated from Mizel Jewish Community Day School and is honored to be helping to teach Hebrew to the younger students at Shul School each week. He has been a Camp Shalom camper for nine years and most recently a Counselor-in-Training.

Baron is the brother of Paxton (10). He is the grandson of Jerry Perigo of Tulsa, Oklahoma; Peter Paxton of Detroit, Michigan (of blessed memory); Jann Paxton of Tallahassee, Florida; and Margaret Sehorn of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Preparations for Baron's bar mitzvah have been led by Greg Raskin and Sara Levitt. The community is invited to join the Von Ostendorf family for services at 9:30 a.m. on Zoom in the Synagogue Zoom Room. The meeting ID is 918 583 7121.

DECEMBER HIGHLIGHTS

5 ■ WINTERLIGHT

Congregation B'nai Emunah is excited to host a special holiday concert on the eighth night of Chanukah, Sunday, December 5. All are invited to attend. We'll light the menorah at the front door of the Synagogue, feast on donuts and holiday treats, and enjoy the festive music of Klay Kodesh, the Synagogue's band of singers and instrumentalists. Our special-guest performers will be the members of Zemer, the Synagogue's children's ensemble. For more information, please visit the Synagogue website at www.tulsasynagogue.com. Look for additional details in the course of November and see the full-page description on page 10 of this issue.

■ MEET BOARD MEMBER JILLIAN ROBERTS

The weekend that Jillian Roberts interviewed for a position at Hearts for Hearing in Tulsa was also a weekend when Tulsa Tomorrow sponsored a program to recruit people to move to Tulsa. Having graduated from Vanderbilt University, Jillian was seeking a position in her field of pediatric and cochlear implant audiology. As Jillian says, "The icing on the cake that convinced me to move to Tulsa was Tulsa Tomorrow."

Not only did Jillian find the perfect job for herself at Hearts for Hearing, she also found "a strong Jewish community" in Tulsa.

In her work world, Jillian primarily sees children with all levels of hearing abilities. She tests children from newborn babies as well as older children and adults with cochlear implants

FROM MORAH SARA LEVITT

HAND IN HAND

One of our students' all-time favorite prayers to sing on Sunday mornings is Le-dor Va-dor. The catchy, age-old tune to the end of the Kedushah prayer is set up so beautifully for learning, repetition, and getting stuck in your head. It's the prayer almost every student most often knows above any other when they begin learning for bar and bat mitzvah. "Le-dor va-dor nagid godlecha, from generation to generation, we will tell of your greatness," our children sing.

This is one of the central ideas of Judaism: to have an eye toward the future with a foot in the past. When we bring our generations together, beautiful magic happens.

Each year right before Thanksgiving, our ShulSchool students and their families participate in our Family Day of Service. We invite parents, grandparents, siblings, and whoever else our students see as family to join us for a day of intergenerational learning, giving back to those in need, and of course, building community.

This is one of my favorite events of the year as families learn together and from one another. We can see the transmission of knowledge, care, and love between the generations and out into the universe in real-time.

This year our Family Day of Service will center on our new effort at the Synagogue in the area of Refugee Resettlement. We'll learn about our Jewish obligations to welcome the stranger, the work of our new Refugee Resettlement Agency at the Synagogue, and participate in a hands-on project to support new arrivals to Tulsa. Of course, the morning will also include song, community building, and snacks! Not a ShulSchool family but want to join us? Please be in touch!

SPECIAL EVENTS

BLATT+BLUE: TEL AVIV ON FIRE | NOVEMBER 18

Now in its second year of broadcasting, Blatt + Blue continues to explore the universe of Jewish film and television, including material that does not conform to notions of conventional taste and philosophical correctness.

The next session on Thursday, November 18 will feature Sameh Zoabi's clever 2019 comedy about Salam, an inexperienced young Palestinian, who becomes a writer on a popular soap opera after a chance meeting with an Israeli soldier. His creative career is on the rise until the soldier and the show's financial backers disagree about how the show should end, and Salam is caught in the middle.

The film is shot through with notes of farce and melancholy, as it sheds light on the complicated relationship between Arabs and Jews. Zoabi sees Israel as a multi-national phenomenon where lives are brought together across the borders of history, class, ethnicity, and nationality. After the city disturbances in Israel this past year, we are all learning more about this challenging reality.

Month after month, Blatt + Blue spotlights film and television enthusiasts David Blatt and Alice Blue. You will be able to follow the conversation even if you have to delay your viewing of the film itself. After that, it's questions and comments from the Zoom Room audience.

Tel Aviv on Fire is easily available on Amazon Prime for a modest rental fee. Join the Zoom discussion on Thursday evening, November 18, at 7:00 p.m. The Zoom meeting ID is 918 583 7121 and the session will conclude at 8:00 p.m. If there is a film you'd like to see in these sessions in the future, please reach out to Rabbi Marc Fitzerman at marboofitz@bnaiemunah.com. Coming in December: Leona.

Yaniv Bton and Kais Nashif in Tel Aviv on Fire.

FROM RABBI KAIMAN

■ OPEN OR CLOSED?

The onset of the pandemic brought about big moments of pronouncement and closure and a clear line between “life before” and “life after.” But re-opening is an entirely different puzzle.

The past several months have been made up of a series of ongoing experiments. We didn't know what life would look like going into this pandemic, and we're still trying to figure out what life is like now that we've gone this far. We know lots more about video production and streaming than we did months ago. Similarly, we've had the opportunity to gather safely in settings both inside the Synagogue and in new spaces which we'd never used before. All of this is to say we keep experimenting and learning every step of the way.

That being said, occasionally I'll hear from someone who asks the straightforward question, “When will the Synagogue re-open?” One answer I'm tempted to give is that we have never closed. And in the essential ways, that is undoubtedly true. But that is not the question people are asking. What they are saying is much more like, “When will life return to what it was before the pandemic?” And unfortunately, that's a question to which I do not have an answer.

Some things we now do work really well. And it's hard to imagine turning away from the critical lessons we have learned. But, at the same time, we also feel the absence of some familiar patterns and rhythms. Things are different now, and change always takes time.

We're not yet in a period beyond the pandemic. As I write this article, we are navigating a breakthrough case connected to our Preschool. Risk is still part of the equation, and as I can attest from my experience a year ago, we need to be concerned about the realities of this virus.

And I also want you to know that the Synagogue is open. We wear masks, and we social distance. We limit capacity, and we do things in hybrid formats. But every single day, something is happening in our building or our Zoom room. Some things we do may take time to come back, and some things we do may be forever changed. That's the reality of growth and evolution.

It's hard to say what the months ahead will hold. I earnestly hope all of this will soon be behind us. But for now, I hope what we offer as a Synagogue is both meaningful and useful. Let's all continue to find new ways to connect and keep the experiments going. After all, it is through all of these experiences that we learn the most about ourselves.

HEALTH NOTES

■ VACCINATION

By the time this reaches you, children over five-years-old are likely to be eligible for COVID vaccinations. This is an important step forward in public health which should reduce the prevalence of illness and protect younger children from disease. With continued testing and wise public policy, it may be that preschoolers will soon be permitted to get their shots.

In keeping with the existing standards of the Synagogue, all eligible persons must be vaccinated before entering the building. If a child cannot be vaccinated because the serum presents a serious threat to health and well-being, a letter from the child's pediatrician will suffice to establish the exemption. Other than these rare cases, we look forward to seeing every child in the congregation vaccinated as a condition for attending school and participating in other public events.

Please note that our deadline for vaccination is the beginning of the winter school semester in January 2022. As we mentioned in our recent note to parents, we trust that this will give all of our parents and guardians ample opportunity to settle this issue and arrange for the appropriate vaccination.

We'll continue to track this issue carefully and report if there are any hiccups in the vaccination process. Naturally, if the public health facts argue against vaccination because of unforeseen disruptions in the program, we will adjust our expectations accordingly.

to provide hearing technology options for her clients. Jillian continues to monitor her clients and describes her job as “the best job in the world” because it is so rewarding.

Having joined the Synagogue, Jillian has become a Board member of Sisterhood at this year's annual meeting. In addition, she serves on the Programming Committee for the Jewish Federation and has initiated a monthly Shabbat potluck meal for young Jewish professionals. She is also an accomplished runner. BBYO has recruited Jillian as an advisor. It is apparent that Jillian is active and engaged in all areas of Tulsa's Jewish community.

BLATT AND BLUE | TEL AVIV ON FIRE | NOV. 18

WINTER LIGHT

Join us for a Festival of Lights at the Synagogue on Sunday, December 5, at 6:00 p.m. Think about music, sparklers, children and adults, all clustered street-fair style at the front door of the Synagogue. Free latkes, donuts, hot chocolate, and s'mores. We'll light the menorah, frolic among the inflatables, and celebrate the warmth and coziness of the season. No reservations necessary. Come one, come all to the corner of Peoria and Seventeenth Street!
